DETAILED ACTION

This Final Office Action is mailed in response to amendment filed February 10, 2006, wherein claims 1-18 were presented as original and new claims 19-20 were introduced.

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of claims 1-20 in the reply filed on February 10, 2006 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that independent claim 1 does not limit the invention to only one compartment. This is found persuasive. Claims 1-20 have been examined in this office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 4, 11, 14, 15, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 4 recites the limitation "the large diameter" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claims 11, 14, 15, and 17 recite "the compartment." It is unclear if this is intended to refer to all compartments or just one.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Krivec (US 5,535,881).

With respect to claims 1, 10, 19 and 20, Krivec discloses a plurality of interconnected compartments (50), each compartment having sidewalls (40) and an open upper end (top). It is seen that the first sidewall of one compartment would be the second sidewall of the adjacent compartment, thereby making the compartments interconnected. To the further clarify, in this office action the first sidewall will be referred to as “40” while the second sidewall will be referred to as 41 (the rear extension of the first sidewall). Within the compartment (50) a resilient biasing member (35) extends away from the first sidewall (40) towards the second sidewall (41) such that an article (25) is held between the biasing member (35) and the second sidewall (41).

With respect to claims 2 and 11, as shown in figure 4 the compartment (50) is rectangular shaped and has first (40) and second (41) sidewalls.

With respect to claims 3 and 12, the biasing member (35) is coupled to the top end (45) of the first sidewall (40). The biasing member uses it's resilient energy to hold the articles (25) in a fixed orientation between the biasing member (35) and the second sidewall (41).

With respect to claims 4 and 13, the biasing member (35) is seen to have a narrow upper portion and a wider lower portion (36) at the free end. A shape having a wide and narrow portion is considered substantially teardrop shaped.

With respect to claims 5 and 14, the second end of the biasing member is secured to the first sidewall (40) adjacent an upper end (45) and extends across the compartment (50) toward the second lateral sidewall (41).

With respect to claim 6 and 15, as shown in figure 1 the compartment (50) is rectangular shaped having flat top (45) and is therefore shaped and dimensioned to sit upon a horizontal support surface.

With respect to claim 7 and 16, although the biasing member (35) does not have smooth curves it is considered to be substantially teardrop shaped, by having wider (36) and narrower (35) portions.

With respect to claims 8, 9, 17, and 18, Krivec discloses all components can be made of plastic (Col. 2 lines 54-56).
